Secret German Documents Are Now Unveiled

Disclosures Reveal That Reds And Nazis Had Agreements Before War

SOUGHT TO CURB UNITED STATES

By JOHN A. REICHMANN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.

State Department unveiling of secret German documents, covering the 1939-41 honeymoon of Soviet Nazi collaboration, today caused intense speculation that a new era in United States diplomacy toward Russia may be under way.

may be under way.

The documents reveal in detail one of the strangest political mismatings in history. They were made public unexpectedly at a time when tension between Russia and the western powers is severe.

All previous information had been that the once-secret files would not be published for some years when, presumably they would have only historic value.

Expect Reaction

Any official explanation for the sudden switch in signals was not immediately available in Washington. But it was generally believed that the publication would have a sharp reaction in Moscow and other capitals.

The 160 separate documents fill 357 printed pages. They start with the negotiations leading up to the economic and political accord between Moscow and Eerlin.

This agreement was a prelude to (Continued on Fage Twe)

He gave hints, too, as to the manner in which he may conduct manner in which he may conduct his campaign.

Mr. Truman said he doesn't plan to do much travelling this year.

He said there may be a "back porch" campaign, but he wouldn't admit that he will conduct it.

"Do you mean a back balcony campaign?" he was asked by a reporter who injected the controversial question of the construction of a second story balcony in the White House portico.

The president laughed heartily and said that that wasn't the back porch at all."

CAN SPRING BE FAR BEHIND?

These are the days when the amateur gardener is hung midway between retrospection and anticipation. In retrospect he is enjoying his last summer's garden and in the cellar he has the tangible evidence of his toil Rows of jars filled with fruit and vegetables and packed away in crates enough potatoes to last until spring.

There is little of history or biography in the seed catalogues. But there is romance, there is promise, there is hope, and there is the satisfaction of being one of those who grow some part of the things they eat.

BETTER ALIEN CONTROLS

Attorney General Clark's orders limiting foreign visitors' permits to six months—in some cases three—and requiring other safeguards that have long been needed should provide greatly improved supervision and control of aliens and particularly circumscribe or prevent subversive activities by them.

The chief point of the new regulations, which eliminate the old free-and-easy one-year permit, is that every not appear in Italy. I'll have to visitor must report his address to the Commissioner of talk to the sales department about Immigration and Naturalization at three-month intervals.

Six-month permits will be issued to visitors intending to remain in one place; those who are going to move about will be accorded only a three-month privilege.

There is certainly no occasion in this country, in these times for aliens to be permitted to roam at will and, the second of the world departure for months and years.

HIROHITO'S TOES

It is hard to decide what to make of Emperor Hirohito's efforts to "humanize" himself, as reported in a feature story recently printed in the Japanese newspapers Nippon Times. It is also hard to guess what the publisher had in mind when he printed it. But it is not difficult to develop suspicions.

Said the article in part:

"It is not everybody who can take a fan between his toes and fan himself. Not only can Emperor Hirohito perform this stunt, but he is able to do so while swimming. He can also swim in the rain holding an open umbrella in one hand."

Secondly is the fact that presidents, prime ministers and secretaries of state are compelled by the mere fact of their high office to look at problems with a broad, overall, view which can be constructive only if all details have been settled and agreed upon at lower levels.

Moral Lesson Is Suggested By PAUL GALLICO

A friend of mine blew in from Chicago the other day and said, "Say, you know, you ought to do a piece about the boys in our town. You know, all the hoods left over from the Capohe and Colisimo era. The tough guys and chiselers, torpedoes, bootleggers and racketeeers. I'd write it myself, except I have to live there."

I said, "What's the story?"

"They're all in legitimate business, and making millions. They own breweries, restaurants, factories, agencies, stores, supply houses. I don't want to mention any names, but they're so tunny they kill me. They found out they can make more money 'legit' than they could in the old days and they can't get over it. Apparently all of them had the instincts and the abilities that make good business men. They just didn't know you could run it on the square."

The story, as I get it, is really full of quaint pharm and all the appeal of the great American success formula.

Learned First Great Lesson

To begin with, these playful, underprivileged boys learned the first great lesson that our country has to teach, which is that you may imbed the competition in blacks of cement or sew it into sacks and drop it into the Chicago filver, or diminish it by machine-gun or small arms fire, without getting into too many or insurmountable difficulties with the law, but you must not ignore or lie to the Income Tax collector. The Government is much more persinckety over the inevitability of taxes than of its corollary, death.

So they began studying the Income Tax blank where they found some strange and wondrous things. You could deduct for legitimate expenses. If you lost dough you didn't pay. And if what you sold cost you less than you got for it, that was legitimate profit and the Government patted you on the head, let you keep some of it and accounted you an upright and useful citizen.

So they learned the practical theories of mass producing, or buying cheap and selling dear, and then in the process of learning how to dispose of their goods, or products, whatever they were, they encount with advertising you never had to worry about the competition. One of them came to my friend completely starry-eyed and marvelled, "Hey, didja know about this here new radio? Why say, it's the greatest thing ever invented. I pay a feller to go on this radio thing. He sings a song and then speaks a place saying how everybody ought to huy my product, and three weeks later I can't make it fast enough. I got to build a new wing on my factory. And what I pay the feller I can take out of my Income Tax. Why this is a set-up for makin' dough. How long has this been going on?"

They all have cheque books now instead of lugging it around in $1000 bills, their wives can attend the best beauty parlors and gossip with the other girls, or lunch in the swank joints and all of them are as happy as larks. The moral of this you may figure out for yourselves.

NIGHT CARE OF YOUNG CHILDREN

Many mothers and some fathers lose in quality and quantity of sleep over the night care of the infant and young child. This is an argument for getting the infant trained pretty early to a schedule. Certainly the mother who does not get ample sleep finds it hard always to be lovely, serene and cheerful while caring for the child. While many mothers seem to be able to drop right back to sleep after being disturbed by caring for the infant or young child by night some will lie awake for long periods. How these mothers maintain as much poise as they do is hard

Habitually Awakens

Many a baby and young child, even up to four or six, habitually awakens an hour or so before the parents should rise, often arousing the entire family. Practically any child, certainly after two or three, can be trained to sleep to any regular reasonable hour desired, if never allowed to get up till the time announced by the bell of a clock. Sometimes a full bladder or hunger awakens the youngsters too early. If the infant is going to be fed so early anyway it might be better to set the clock and feed him at three or four o'clock, with a good chance, perhaps that both the child and mother will resume sleep thereafter. Or, just to take the tot to the toilet around three or four might be workable.

But if you are sure the child really does not need food so early in the morning let him "cry it out," being sure you can guard him from sufocation. With several mornings of such training he might easily be "cured." so as to add many hours to his sleep and the mother's for months or years thereafter.
Should the infant always be dried at once when he is wet? It's continence at three.

Obvious Gains Again the obvious gains from keeping the youngster dry in bed may be over-balanced by the resulting loss in sleep to both mother and child. Let the mother weigh the relative values and proceed accordingly

Except for extra care of the bed clothing, aesthetic reasons or skin chapping of the child, his lying in he wet bed won't matter and the bed can be armored with a rub-ber sheet. Nothing can be so harm-ful as shaming, scolding or punish ing the child found wet, and the older he is the more harmful this practice is.

While self-care at the toilet can best be cultivated in the child over three or four while he is awake, it may be better not to awaken him if he should grow irritable then or not readily resume sleep. In all these matters it is wise to observe carefully and weigh relative values, giving first Nor does it matter, rich or poor consideration. as a rule, to sleep both in the child and mother. ### Moral Lesson Is Suggested By PAUL GALLICO

A friend of mine blew in from Chicago the other day and said, "Say, you know, you ought to do a piece about the boys in our town. You know, all the hoods left over from the Capone and Colisimo era. The tough guys and chiselers, torpedoes, bootleggers and racketeeers. I'd write it myself, except I have to live there."

I said, "What's the story?"

"They're all in legitimate business, and making millions. They own preverties restaurants factories agencies stores supply houses.

"They're all in legitimate business, and making millions. They own breweries, restaurants, factories, agencies, stores, supply houses. I don't want to mention any names, but they're so funny they kill me. They found out they can make more money 'legit' than they could in the old days and they can't get over it. Apparently all of them had the instincts and the abilities that make good business men. They just didn't know you could run it on the square."

The story, as I get it, is really full of quaint charm and all the appeal of the great American success formula.

Learned First Great Lesson

To begin with, these playful, underprivileged boys learned the first great lesson that our country has to teach, which is that you may imbed the competition in blocks of cement or sew it into sacks and drop it into the Chicago River, or diminish it by machine-gun or small arms fire, without getting into too many or insurmountable difficulties with the law, but you must not ignore or lie to the Income Tax collector. The Government is much more persinckety over the inevitability.

with the law, but you must not ignore or lie to the Income Tax collector. The Government is much more persinckety over the inevitability of taxes than of its corollary, death.

So they began studying the Income Tax blank where they found some strange and wondrous things. You could deduct for legitimate expenses. If you lost dough you didn't pay. And if what you sold cost you less than you got for it, that was legitimate profit and the Government patted you on the head, let you keep some of it and accounted you an upright and useful citizen.

Learned Practical Theories

So they learned the practical theories of mass producing, or buying cheap and selling dear, and then in the process of learning how to dispose of their goods, or products, whatever they were, they ento dispose of their goods, or products, whatever they were, they en-countered another American miracle—advertising.

Prior to this, that is in the old days, the way to sell was to march into a South Side bodega or gin mill, appropriately sagging with assorted hardware and announce, "Good afternoon, pal. Me and the boys here are representing Burpo Beer. From now on, you are using

This worked to a degree except that there was an element of strain connected with it and it frequently led to a nervous breakdown on the part of the proprietor, particularly when the opposition representing Blotto, the zestful needle-enriched beer with the angy, lockedin ounce of ether in every bottle, advanced the same claims or terri-tory. Somebody invariably got shot and a lot of the profits were eaten up purchasing expensive bronze caskets and gigantic floral

With advertising you never had to worry about the competition One of them came to my friend completely starry-eyed and marvelled, "Hey, didja know about this here new radio? Why say, it's the greatest thing ever invented. I pay a feller to go on this radio thing. He sings a song and then speaks a piece saying how everybody ought to sings a song and then speaks a piece saying how everybody ought to buy my product, and three weeks later I can't make it fast enough. I got to build a new wing on my factory. And what I pay the feller I can take out of my Income Tax. Why this is a set-up for makin' dough. How long has this been going on?"

They all have cheque books now instead of lugging it around in $1000 bills, their wives can attend the best beauty parlors and gossip with the other girls, or lunch in the swank joints and all of them are as harpey as larks. The moral of this you may figure out for yourselves. happy as larks. The moral of this you may figure out for yourselves.

New Castle Man Secures U. S. Roaster'

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The United States Patent Office granted patent No. 2433,781 on an "ore roaster" to Harry L. McFeaters, New Castle, Pa.

This invention pertains to an improved furnace for roasting pressand provides a rotatable, horizoatal, internally fired unit that permits a relatively quick charging and discharging of its contents. Roasling, as is commonly known, is a heat treatment in which ores are subjected preparatory to smelting operations, and serves the purpose of hurning or driving off undesired substances.

Mr. McFeaters' structure comprises a central cylindrical body to which conical end portions are securely joined at an angle of about 45 degrees. One of these end sections is connected to the oil burner or heating equipment while the other serves as the outlet for the smake stack of the equipment. In addition, a preferably rectangular opening and door are provided in the hody, through which the ore passes in and out of the contrivance.

In operation, the ore is passed by way of a chule into the roaster which is culated at proper speed and for a suitable length of time, after which the finished product is discharged into a ladie, ready for smelling operations.

One feature of this invention resides in the fall that the discontinuation resides in the fall that the discontinuation.

DINNER INVITATION Question: I have just received a written invitation to dinner at the name of a woman whom I do not know very well. Would you please give me an idea as to how I should reply?

Answer: Here is a form of acceptance: "I shall be delighted to dine with you on Wednesday the seventh, at eight o'clock. Thank you so much for thinking of me."

I take his arm or have him take mine?

Answer: Neither. You should not link arms white walking along the street. When you walk on dangeraus paving, a slippery surface or a bally-lighted streets, your flance should offer his arm to pre-teet you against tripping or falling. When you cross the street, your flance might, if you require assistance, offer his arm to you. He should not take you by the ellow. The woman who clings to a man gives the impression of heing overly possessive and of being atraid of losing her man if she lets go of him.

might be better to work for long-term goals, such as a guaranteed annual wage, rather than for in-creases that vanish in the ever-mounting flame of inflation. Some creases that vanish the very mounting flame of inflation. Some unions, conspicuously the United Automobile Workers, have included gains such as paid yacations in their demands.

The General Motors division of UAW has just voted to forego 10 cents of their fortheoming 30-cents-an-hour demand if the company will present an "acceptable pension plan." That is a small example of common sense. A pension plan would not be so immediately and directly inflationary and its long-term effect would be on the side of stability.

The third round can do much greater damage than the second wage boost. That should be a solvening consideration in all union councils those days.

New Class In Nursing School Starts March 7

M. Geiger, Nursing Director At Jameson Memorial

Announcement of a new class in the School of Nursing at Jameson Memorial hospital starting March 7 was made today by Mrs. Jane M. Geiger, director of nursing.

The announcement was made by a statement cultining the training offered by the school and the advantages of nursing as a career.

a statement outlining the training offered by the school and the advantages of nursing as a career.

The class is open for girls in the 17-35 age range with a night school education, with specified requirements in Enlish, science, history and with one year of mathematics.

Mrs. Geiger urged that candidates wishing to enter the Jameson School of Nursing apply to her for information relative to enrollment. The School of Nursing, which was organized in 1885, offers a three-pear course in nursing and prepares its graduates to practice as registered professional nurses. The course is designed to educate the student in efficient methods of nursing care and the underlying principles of health.

All applicants are given an interesting psychometric test, a special type of examination to determine aplitude of nursing, and the director pointed out the high value of this test to the applicant in determining her career.

Fre-Clinical Period

The first six months in school constitute the pre-clinical period when the student receives her basic science and nursing arts instruction. After that, the student is assigned to work in the hospital for clinical experience.

FAMOUS HOLLYWOOD STAR IN PERSON FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW

Freddie Bartholomew who will appear in person at the Cathedral auditorium on Tuesday, Jan. 27th, under the sponsorship of New Castle Lions Club, in the Broatway comedy hit, "The Hasty Heart" by John Pairick, has one of the most interesting cargers Hollywood ever created. Freddie Bartholomew began his eareer as a stage and screen actor at the age of three in London, England. Merle Oberon and Madeleine Carroll made their first pictures with him. Between the age of three and eleven he appeared in eleven pictures and three stage plays. Then David O. Selznick, after screening 10,000 boys for the much sought after part of David Copperfield, had Freddie Bartholomew brought over from England to play young David Copperfield. From then on his career sky-rockeled in Hollywood. During the following nine years he made over fifty pictures which endeared him to the movie-going public all over the world. When war carue, Freddie Bartholomew joined the Air Corps and became an American eitizen. After his medical discharge from the service (became of a broken back), he returned to Hollywood, delermined to make an old dream come true; to return to the legitimate stage before resuming his movie career. He built the Phoents Theatre in Westwood, California and was so successful with it that he decided to go East and play the Summer-theatre circuit. "The Hasty Heart" was one of the vehicles he portrayed this summer and the play was so successful with it that he decided to standing room only. Realizing that "The Hasty Heart" was truty, as the New York critics said, "One of the warmest as well as one of the most touching play that Proad-way has seen in a long time." (Willela Waidorf, N. Y. Post.) and therefore meant something to people everywhere, he decided to tour America with it till May, when he leaves for Europe to fin:"Ill law was ton our most couching play that Broadway has seen in a long time." FAMOUS HOLLYWOOD STAR IN PERSON

Freddie Bartholomew who will appear in person at the Cathedral auditorium on Tuesday, Jan. 27th, under the sponsorship of New Castle Llons Club, in the Broadway comedy hit, "The Hasty Heart" by John Patrick, has one of the most interesting careers Hollywood ever created. Freddle Bartholomew began his career as a stage and screen actor at the age of three in London, England. Merie Oberon and Madeleine Carroll made their first pictures with him. Between the age of three and eleven he appeared in eleven pictures and three stage plays. Then David O. Selsnick, after screening 10,000 boys for the much sought after part of David Copperfield, had Freddie Bartholomew brought over from England to play young David Copperfield. From then on his career sky-rocketed in Hollywood. During the following nine years he made over fifty pictures which endeared him to the movie-going public all over the world. When war came, Freddie Bartholomew joined the Air Corps and became an American citizen. After his medical discharge from the service (because of a broken back), he returned to Hollywood, determined to make an old dream come true: to return to the legitimate stage before resuming his movie career. He built the Phoenix Theatre in Westwood, California and was so successful with it that he decided to go East and play the Summer-theatre circuit. "The Hasty Heart" was one of the vehicles he portrayed this summer and the play was so successful that it played everywhere to standing room only. Realizing that "The Hasty Heart" was truly, as the New York critics said, "One of the warmest as well as one of the most touching plays that Broadway has seen in a long time" (Willela Waldorf, N. Y. Post.) and therefore meant something to people everywhere, he decided to tour America with it till May, when he leaves for Europe to fulfill his next movie commitment. The supporting Broadway cast in "The Hasty Heart" is the original company with which Freddie Bartholomew toured last summer.

Both reports, prepared by the industry's top experts, are regarded as highly important and will form the frame of recommendations to be adopted by the group.

Walter S. Hallanan, council chairman, said the group is in "unanimous opposition" to any plan of government price-fixing and rationing control. He declared:

"It will not produce one additional gallon of petroleum, but will curtail production and magnify our problems".

Soviet Russia Is Warned By Bevin

By CHARLES A. SMITH LONDON, Jan. 22.—British For-eign Secretary Bevin openly warned Russia today that her expansion is leading to war and called for a confederation of western Europe to meet the Soviet threat.

Beyin said that Great Britain,
France and Italy and lowlands would attempt to consolidate, add-would attempt to consolidate, adding:

"The free nations of western Europe must now draw together.

"I believe that the time is ripe for consolidation of western Europe."

Bevin likened Soviet policies to the past aggressions of Hitler and Mussolini. He said that any "ruthless" policy by one nation to dominate Europe "inevitably will lead to another world war."

Bevin said it did not matter whether sith emans employed to achieve such domination are direct or indirect.

In a major policy to the House of Commons—his principal speech since he told parliament after the hig four collapse that Britain was facing a "grave decision"—the foreign secretary was blunt in his criticism of Russian expansionist policies.

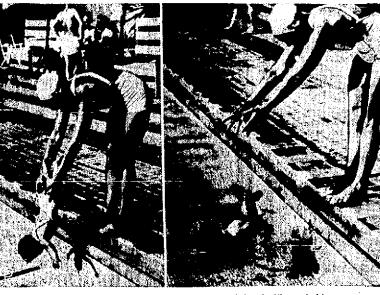

Population Of U. S.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(INS)—
Population of the United States probably will total 150 million by 1950, according to Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. He said:
"The extraordinary rapid rise in births since 1940 has completely upset earlier forecasts of our population growth and of the duture maximum population of the country."

The report asserted that more than $21,000,000 would be required to rehabilitate alcoholics and exessive drinkers in the state.

Rep. Charles II. Brumer, Jr., (R) Montgomery committee chairman, announced the group will schedule hearings during 1948 to take the testimony of groups studying alcoholism.

The committee will hear representatives of industry, national and state alcoholic research organizations, temperance and rehabilitation groups, social and traternal organizations and the liquor industry.

The committee will near reput-sentiatives of Industry, mallonal and state alcoholic research organiza-tions, temperance and rehabilita-tion groups, soolal and fraternal or-ganizations and the liquor industry, he said.

ganizations and the liquor friducty, he said.

Emphasizing that figures contained in the committee's preliminary report relating to the state were only tentative Brunner explained that they 'must be taken with several grains of saits."

The report's 'tentative estimate' of the extent of alcoholism in Pennsylvania in 1940 listed the number of alcoholics at 55,000 and "excessive drinkers" at 219,000.

The figures were obtained by extending statsics compiled by "observers of the national problem" by the ratio of Pennsylvania's population.

State Health Secretary Reports Some Improvement In Past Year

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 22.—Public epinion and the state health department's "spot inspections" have brought about a general cleanup among Pennsylvania restaurants and drinking establishments.

Health Secretary Norris W. Vaux reported today that public demand for cleanliness has resulted in "a big improvement" in banitary conditions at restaurants and tap-rooms.

"Since passage of the restaurant hygiene law by the 1945 general assembly the Pennsylvanians have become more health conscious and demand more in cleanliness and sanitation," he explained. "At the same time, proprietors of eating and drinking places have achieved a greater sense of responsibility toward their customers."

Vaux said the trend first sp-peared during the war years when many workers were compelled to eat at public establishments.

Requests Received

"We are receiving requests from districts throughout the state for advice on how to improve restaurant sanitation," he said. "Unusual interest has been shown by high schools and colleges which ask for copies of health department rules and regulations governing operation of restaurants."

He pointed out that health boards of many communities have undertaken plans to hold health

cal Man. Com Field Artillery, Has Had Eight Years Service

Recent announcement of the promotion of First Sgt. Charles A. Pollock from First Sgt. of Headquarters Battery, 229th F.A. to 2nd lieutenent, is another instance of where devotion to duty merits its reward. Lt. Col. George F. Mitchell, commander of the 229th stated today.

Lt. Pollock enlisted in old Troop
K. 103rd Cavalry. P.N.G., in April 1939. The unit was designated the 190th Field Artillery in October, 1940, and Lt. Pollock was with this unit when it went to Camp Shelby,
Miss., on January 13, 1941 as a sergeant.

Before going overseas in August, 1942, he was promoted to staff sergeant and later to first sergeant. while overseas. He returned from the ETO in October, 1945, and was discharged at Indiantown Gap. tHe holds the American Defense Serv-ice Medal, ETO ribbon with five battle stars, and the Bronze Arrow-battle stars, and the Bronze Arrowhead for taking part in the initial assault in the Normandy Invasion, along with the Bronze Star.

He re-enlisted in the 299th in October, 1946, as first sergeant of Headquarters Battery. Lt. Pollock reside at 14 E. North street, and is employed with the Bell Telephone Company.

Young men interested in military activity, who would like to follow in Lt. Pollock's footsteps, are invited by Lt. Col. Mitchell of the 229th to come to Cunningham Armory, on Wednesday or Friday evening, to make inquiry into the possibilities of National Guard advancement.

Warn On Emergency Operation Of Open Flame Home Heaters

Emergency operation of open flame gas and oil heaters brings a serious hazard to life into the home, engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters warn. ## Lt. Pollock Has Long Record Of

at Man Cammissioned By 229th Field Artillery, Has Had Eight Years Service

Recent announcement of the pro notion of First Sgt. Charles A. Pollock from First Sgt. of Head-quarters Battery, 229th F.A. to 2nd liculement, is another instance of where devotion to duty merits its reward, Lt. Col. George F. Mitchell, commander of the 229th stated to-reward, Lt. Col. George F. Alitenelli, commander of the 229th stated to-day.

Lt. Pollock enlisted in old Troop K. 163rd Cavalry, P.N.G., In April 1939. The unit was designated the 190th Field Artillery in October, 1940, and Lt. Pollock was with this tink when it went to Camp Shelby, Miss., on January 13, 1941 as a sergeant.

Before going overseas in August, 1942, he was promoted to staff sergeant and later to first sergeant, while overseas. He returned from the ETO in October, 1945, and was discharged at Indiantown Gap. Office Medial, ETO ribbon with five battle slars, and the Bronze Arrow-head for taking part in the initial sergeant with the Bronze Str. If re-emisted in the 299th in October, 1946, as first sergeant of Headquarters Battery. H. Pollock reside at 14 E. North street, and 1s employed with the Belliary activity, who would like to follow in Lt. Pollock's footsteps, are invited by Lt. Col. Mitchell of the 229th to come to Cunningtham Armory, on Wednesday or Friday evening, to make inquiry into the possibilities of National Guard Fadvancement.

Warn On Emergency Operation Of Open Flame Home Heaters

Emergency operation of open flame gas and oil heaters brings a serious hazard to life into the home, engineers of the National Hoard of Fire Underwriters warn. During the recent snowstorms in the northeustern states, many deaths were caused by gas poisoning through use of unvented open aliame heaters in tightly closed grooms.

Jame heaters in ognity crossed froms.

As cold weather continues, many fhouseholders will use these heat-lers to supplement their furnaces. In addition, whenever electric and gas supplies are cut due to storms for other emergencies, these heat-lers are brought into use by the thousands, increasing the life hazard.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.-More han a million pounds of dried ruits will be distributed to Penn-

..... 58,900 pounds ..... 263,580 pounds

Acquired By U. S. These dried fruits were acquired by the United States Department of Agriculture when unusually large supplies threatened to cause heavy financial loss to growers and processors on the west coast. For 1947, the commercial pack of dried fruits is expected to total slightly more than 600,000 tons, or about one-fifth larger than the 1946 pack. For the season, prices to growers are expected to average lower than in 1946, with prices for raisins and dried prunes about 50 per cent lower. But even with sharply reduced prices, total supplies were much larger than could be consumed in this country. To provide outlets for this surplus, and to establish reasonable prices to producers and consumers, the department undertook the purchase of dried fruit.

Ratio Of Use

In schools, these dried fruits are to be used at the rate of one pound a month for each child, with the monthly use per child not to exceed one-quarter pound of any one dried fruit. Iustitutional use of dried fruits will be at the rate of two pounds each month for each person, with use not to execute fruits will be distributed to Pennsylvania schools participating in the national school lunch program and to welfare institutions within the state, under allocations now heing made by the United States Department of Agriculture.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

DACK in the days of 1925-36, there was a lightweight here, who, for his poundage, could hit harder than any lightweight in the world. He was Paris (Kid) Cangey who battled approximately 150 times and only lost 18 of the encounters. At one time during his carcer, a Buffalonian offered Jimmy Dime $20,000 for his contract, and upon another occasion, Rocky Kansas, lightweight champion of the world, is said to have turned down a purse of $20,000 to fight Cangey. He fought here, east, south, west and north, and at one time, was attached to the stable of Leo P. Flynn, who once managed Jack Dempsey. It was while with Flynn that he turned in several good wins in the east. However, he became homesick, and returned to New Castle, again going under the banner of Jimmy Dime. But the two fights for which Cangey, at least, locally, will be best remembered were with Frankie Ferro of Philadelphia, whom Cangey virtually knocked out of the fight game. The first fight took place June 17, 1929, and the second, August 19, 1929. Ferro, as tough as they came, crawled into the ring, a favorite to win. Four times up to the seventh round, Ferro had Cangey on the floor, but Paris indomiable courage never failed, and, in the seventh round of the first fight, he nailed Ferro on the temple. Ferro went down, but got up, only to be felled again by a punch to the jaw. Frankie was carried to his corner, revived, and sent out for the cighth, and what proved the final round. He fought tigerishly, as did Cangey, Cangéy landed squarely on Ferro's jaw and he was knocked out, cold. DACK in the days of 1925-36, there was a lightweight here, who, for Ferre demanded a return match, to which Cangey was not averse. Ferro trained, as he did for the first fight in the stable of Al Lippe, former manager of Abe Attel, Battling Levinsky and a half dozen others, but the second fight ended quicker than the first. Cangey knocked him out in a furious whirl of punches in the second finst and the next times divising the next several years has given instructions. Paris, at times during the past several years, has given instructions to youthful aspirants for fistic honors. However, due to an accident sustained while working on the railroad, it is doubtful if he will be able to indulge in training fighters again. He is married, has several children, and resides along the New Castle-Ellwood City highway.

It was while, with Flynn that he turned in several good wins in the east. However, he became homesick, and returned to New Castle, again going under the banner of Jimmy Dime. But the two fights for which Cangey, at least, locally, will be best renembered were with Frankie Ferro of Philadelphia, whom Cangey virtually knocked out of the fight game. The first fight look place June 17, 1929, and the second. August 19, 1929, Ferro, as tough as they came, crawled into the ring, a favorite to win. Four times up to the seventh round, Ferro had Cangey on the floor, but Paris Indomnable courage never falled, and, in the seventh round of the first fight, he nailed Ferro on the temple. Ferro went down, but got up, only to be felled again by a punch to the cighth, and what proved the final round, He fought tigerishiy, as did Cangey. ## Mrs. Mildred Donaldson Hopes To Keep Bowling Trophy She Captured In 1947

Cage Loops In Merry Scramble

Mrs. Mildred Dewberry Donaldson is giving the pin boys a busy time of it again.

The popular dusyin champion of the city, holder of the Greater Pittsburgh Area trophy which she captured last year, is scorching the alleys in two local leagues and looking forward to the time when she will defend her laurels against the best of the district in the Smoky City.

Alrs. Donaldson started as a bowter 12 years ago and has blossomed into one of the most polished women performers in the game. She entered her first big time competition in 1942. Ironically enough defeating another New Castle girl, Betty Voynick, by thirty pins, for the championship.

Last year, in one of the most thilling matches ever staged in Plutsburgh, Mrs. Donaldson rolled a record 611 for three games, smashing all existing records in the semi-finals and finals. She captured the cup by edging Mrs. Cecilia Gaul of Plitsburgh, the defending champion, by four pins.

This winter, the eagle-eyed champ, who works best while under pressure, has averaged 150 in one league and 153 in another. She performs at the Castle Alleys and although she enters into the local competition with the zest of a true athlete, her mind is skipping ahead a 1ew months when she places her shiny trophy on the line again.

It will be for keeps then. And thal's the way Mildred likes it.

my Braddock in Cheege on June 22, 1937.
Since then he has worn the purple with a grace and dignity which has stamped him as one of the finest champions of all time.

'Sullivan and his battle ery "I can lick any man in the world", reached a zenith over a ten year 212-day period stretching from Feb. 7, 1882. to Sept. 7, 1882.
Sullivan won his crown by knocking out Paddy Ryan at Mississiph City, Miss. He lost it in the 21st round of an "all-or-nothing" bout against Gentleman Jim Corbett.

Let Our Quality Feeds be your barometer. "Our Quality feeds are now better than ever befor feeds are now better than ever before, all ingredients are now available; scientific and experimental knowledge has been developed to a higher level, so that now "Our Quality" feeds are truly "As good as the best—better than the rest." So we say to pay more is extravagance, to pay less is false economy. No one can make feed so good so cheap.
